

OUR STORY

It all started with a camellia tree.
In 1996, a flowering camellia in the Waikato inspired Vincent Chen.
"Tea is a kind of camellia...
maybe tea could grow here too."
A dream was born.

1,500 tea cuttings were brought into Aotearoa New Zealand with only 130 surviving quarantine. The difficulties and challenges grew, but year after year, Vincent learned the art of tea in Aotearoa New Zealand's unique and pure environment.

Today, over 1.2 million tea plants thrive
in the estate as testimony to that dream
and a promise of the only true Aotearoa
New Zealand tea.
